

Qua collaborates with Pathlight School to launch lacquer gifts with a Heart

Qua is privileged to partner Pathlight School to introduce the Pathlight Artist Showcase - a collection of gift premiums featuring the students' artwork from Pathlight Artist Development Programme. Established by the Autism Resource Centre (ARC) in 2004, Pathlight School became Singapore's first autism-focused school that is dedicated to serving children and adults with Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD) and to help these individuals lead meaningful and independent lives in society.

Under the Artist Development Programme (ADP) launched by Pathlight School in 2011, professional art teachers are engaged to uncover and nurture artistic talents of these autistic students.

Qua believes in the important causes in Singapore and the non-profit organizations that strives to make a difference. Realizing our CSR efforts through this collaboration, we aim to promote the art created by these unique and talented individuals as well as reach out to the public about autism. All artists from the ADP earn royalties from the sale of their merchandise that will support them into having an honourable source of income. Make a difference to the autism community today.

The newest Pathlight Artist collection features the artwork of Selena Seow's Birds of a Feather #1. Selena has a way of portraying birds in curious moments of stillness. Her birds exude a sense of calm and peace, even though they can be unpredictable and jumpy creatures. She achieves her feathery details with very well-sharpened coloured pencils.
